

Traffic, Fires Accounting for Big Death Toll

Traffic fatalities continued to mount slowly in the final hours of the four-day New Year holiday weekend.

Deaths from traffic accidents were occurring at a pace that held out the possibility that a record low could be set if the current trend continues to the end of the 102-hour period at midnight tonight.

The lower than expected pace of traffic deaths caused the National Safety Council to revise downward its preholiday estimate of the number of persons that might die in traffic accidents during the long holiday weekend.

Before the start of the holiday at 6 p.m. (local time) Friday, the council had estimated the toll would range from 420 to 480. Monday, after analyzing the number of deaths during the first three days of the holiday, the council revised its estimate to 350 to 390.

The record low traffic toll for a four-day New Year holiday was 375 during the 1951-52 period.

Snow, rain or fog over widely scattered sections of the country made driving conditions hazardous an abridgment plea from safety officials for extra caution on the part of drivers.

A bus-truck collision Monday, near Superior, Mont., killed six persons and three others died Monday night in Jersey City, N.J. when their car slammed into a concrete pillar.

Victims of multiple tragedies not connected with automobile traffic included an Illinois family of five and a guest who perished when their farm home burned on Sunday, and a mother of three children who died in a fire at another farm near Iowa City, Iowa, Sunday night.

In the East, nine members of a tugboat crew were believed to have drowned in Long Island Sound Monday when their craft foundered in a storm about 40 miles east of New York City.

Last year's three-day New Year holiday accounted for 337 traffic deaths, 83 in fires and 59 in miscellaneous accidents, an over-all toll of 479.

An Associated Press survey of a four-day, non-holiday winter weekend period, from 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 7, to midnight Tuesday, Dec. 11, showed 371 highway deaths, 64 killed in fires and 78 in miscellaneous accidents, a total of 511.

Katangans Gather for More Fighting

By ROBIN P. MANNOCK

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe gathered remnants of his battered forces around him in the stronghold of Kolwezi today and prepared for possible guerrilla warfare against the United Nations' Congo Legion.

Kolwezi, 150 miles northwest of the Katangan capital of Elisabethville, is the main base for Tshombe's small air force — a force which the U.N. command has given until noon today to surrender or face destruction.

The secessionist leader reached Kolwezi from a temporary haven in Britain's Southern Rhodesia Monday as U.N. Secretary General U Thant declared in New York that the time has come for a solution to the division of the Congo. Thant suggested he was setting a time limit of two weeks for putting his national reconciliation plan into effect.

Thant noted that Elisabethville was firmly in U.N. hands and said last week's fighting could prove decisive in opening the way for a solution of the Congo rift. Tshombe has indicated that he would give the signal for scorched earth warfare rather than how to any forced reintegration of his mineral-rich province into the impoverished rest of the Congo.

Previous negotiations between Tshombe and Cyrille Adoula, president of the Congolese central government, proved fruitless, with one or the other hedging whenever a solid agreement seemed near. Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak told newsmen that Tshombe's presence is essential for negotiations. As Spaak put it, "To negotiate, you need someone fit to talk with."

Tshombe indicated Sunday he felt that the United Nations' military operation aimed at a forced solution, saying that it had been long under preparation. The U.N. command on the other hand, said it sent its troops on the offensive only after enduring two days of growing bombardment from Katangan forces.

Thant said in his statement that "the United Nations is seeking no victory and no surrender in Katanga."

His main objective, he declared, is to bring about unification of the Congo according to directives given him by the U.N. Security Council. He made it clear, however, that he supported the central government and would deal with Katangan leaders only as provincial officials.

In Washington, U.S. officials were described as hopeful that the U.N. plan for Congo unification would now move rapidly forward. They looked for Tshombe to come to terms within two weeks or be on his way out.

A French mercenary told newsmen in Ndola, Northern Rhodesia, that Tshombe's white mercenaries, estimated to number between 200 and 500, were concentrating in Kolwezi and at Jodotville, midway between Kolwezi and Elisabethville.

Lt. Gen. Prem Chand, the U.N. military commander in Katanga, said Monday night that U.N. military operations were static, with his troops mopping up small pockets of resistance.

UN Thinks Congo Will Reunify

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. authorities held out growing hope today that the long-stalled U.N. plan for Congo reunification will now move swiftly forward.

They think that within a fortnight—the rough time limit given by U.N. Secretary-General U Thant—Moise Tshombe, president of the secessionist Katanga Province, will come to terms with the U.N. reconciliation plan or be on his way out of the picture.

And even before then, they said, arrangements should be worked out for Union Miniere, European-owned Katanga mining company, to pay tax revenues to the central Congo government.

Restoration of Katanga—and its rich copper and cobalt mines—to the Congo is deemed by U.S. strategists as a necessity to prevent chaos and possibly communism from enveloping the vast central African area.

The optimistic Washington view was based on an assessment that the U.N. dispersal of Katangan forces and Tshombe's flight had so raised U.N. influence and lowered Tshombe's that the American-backed U.N. plan to reunite the Congo could quickly pick up momentum.

A first order of business under the plan is to have Katanga official officials of the central government. Another is incorporation of the 18,000-man Katanga gendarmerie into the national army.

Beyond this lies negotiations for a national constitution and development of technical and governmental services in Katanga. This job is already under way in some Congo areas, where U.N. specialists have been training Congolese in administration and other duties.

Year of Rabbit

HONG KONG (AP)—A Chinese fortune-teller who had predicted the Cuban crisis would not lead to a world war said today that 1963 will be a year of peace.

GO OVER PROPOSALS — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, left, goes over strike settlement proposals with Alexander Chopin, chairman of the New York Shippers Association. The chief obstacle blocking settlement of the week-old longshoremen strike is the length of a new contract. The union wants a two-year pact; the shippers are seeking a one-year agreement.

Romney in Call for Progress

By GENE SCHROEDER

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Automaker George Romney becomes Michigan's first Republican governor in 14 years today.

In his prepared inaugural address, the 55-year-old former American Motors president pleaded for an end to the "cold war" that has been hindering our state progress.

"Our troubles have focused the national spotlight on Michigan. And solving these troubles will focus the national spotlight on these solutions," he said.

Romney is the first Republican to move into the executive office in Lansing since Democrat G. Mennen Williams was elected governor in 1948 for the first of six two-year terms. Williams is now an assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Romney captured the governor's chair from John B. Swainson, 37, a legless veteran of World War II, by some 30,000 votes. He promised to bring "effective, bipartisan, citizenship participation" into the state government.

Romney was the only Republican elected to statewide office.

Fire Destroys a Hotel at Conway

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Fire destroyed the 42-year-old Bachelor Hotel here Monday night, but the 22 occupants got an early warning from two men who had rooms and there were no reported injuries. The hotel was evacuated in 35 degree weather.

The three-story brick structure was occupied mostly by workers at central Arkansas Titan II missile base sites. It was Conway's only large hotel and was located in the downtown section of the city.

All adjacent structures were safe early today, though the hotel still burned.

Noble Barber, owner of the 55-unit hotel, estimated his loss at $125,000. He said the building was insured for $80,000.

W. D. McKay, a barber working in the hotel, and Lex Trogan, a missile base worker, went through the hotel door to door shortly after the fire was discovered, kicking open rooms to notify occupants the building was ablaze.

Trogan said he smelled smoke and later heard explosions, but

First Shots of Year Are Fired

BERLIN (AP) — East and West Berlin police exchanged their first shots of the new year today in the search for an escaped refugee.

There was no report of anyone being hurt by the shooting and there was no immediate word of the refugee's fate.

West Berlin police reported that at 6:25 a.m. they saw the crew of an East German patrol boat shoot five rounds of tommygun fire into the Spree River, apparently aiming at a refugee in the icy water.

Fifteen minutes later police in another eastern patrol boat fired two shots at two West Berlin policemen in a vacant lot along the bank.

West Berlin policemen replied with four shots.

State Tax Take Shows Big Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Revenue Department said Monday state tax collections for December showed a healthy $1.4 million increase over December of last year.

The total for December, 1962, was $11,570,916 of which $4,185,427 came from special and $7,385,489 from general revenues.

The sale tax brought in $473,404, compared to the December, 1961 revenue of $420,324.

For the first six months of the 1962-63 fiscal year, revenues reached $83.4 million, up from $77.3 million during the same period in 1961.

But while the overall collections were up, there was an unexplained drop in liquor, beer and cigarette tax revenue, the department said.

The cigarette tax revenue during December was $802,416, down from $806,074 the same month a year ago. The beer tax, which brought in $127,190 in December a year ago brought only $123,236 last month.

The liquor tax accounted for $147,401 a year ago against $135,871 in December, 1961.

Other tax collections reported by the department, by type, revenue last month and December a year ago, were:

Gasoline, $3,859,247, up from $3,257,151; uss, $324,180 up from $300,295 and state income $722,232 up from 436,639.

Icy Gales Hit North, Bring Many Disasters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Icy gales accompanied by sub-zero temperatures continued to lash the Northeast today and were blamed for fire, traffic accident and boating disaster deaths.

Blasts of arctic winds sent temperatures throughout the area to record lows in some areas. Little relief is promised during the day.

Temperatures in New York State plunged as low as 27 below zero.

New Year's Eve celebrations were curtailed in many areas by ravages of gales that gusted as much as 80 miles an hour. At least 20 persons lost their lives in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Rhode Island.

The Weather Bureau in New York said it was neither the coldest nor windiest New Year's Day on record. But the bitter cold kept the Times Square crowd at midnight down to 300,000 — lowest number in many years — and drove celebrators from the area within nine minutes after the New Year. The official temperature in the square at midnight was 11 degrees.

Small vessels and tugs were hapless victims before the gales. One was reported sunk in Long Island Sound, apparently carrying nine crewmen to a frigid death. Fires that inevitably accompany cold weather spread destruction and death throughout the area.

The Coast Guard was still looking for the 100-foot vessel, Gwendolyn Steers, apparently down in Long Island Sound with nine men aboard. One member of the crew was found frozen in a lifeboat, his body encased in ice from waves and spray.

Near Highland Falls, N.Y., the 110-foot Coast Guard harbor tug Sauk went aground in the icy Hudson River and half sank by the stern, but all 17 men aboard were rescued.

In New York harbor, passengers were barred from the decks of ferry boats, lest strong winds sweep them overboard. A passenger on a Staten Island ferry reported seeing a youth blown overboard Sunday but a search of the harbor failed to turn up the body.

Transportation was jammed, windows of stores and homes smashed, electric wires downed, water mains burst and destructive winds clogged thoroughfares with debris.

The state of Maine suffered through its worst blizzard in a decade with up to 20 inches of snow. Drifts piled as high as 30 feet in Bangor, where the Daily News failed to publish a morning paper Monday for the first time since 1890.

At least 2,000 persons were stranded in buses and cars throughout Maine, and Gov. John H. Reed appealed to more fortunate citizens to offer a haven to those seeking refuge.

Mrs. Anna Wade, 72, of Blevins, Dies Monday

Mrs. Anna Lou Wade, aged 72, of Blevins died unexpectedly at noon Monday in a Dallas hospital. She was a native of Wichita Falls Texas and moved to this area in 1940.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Dale Bonds of Blevins and Mrs. G. C. Weaver of Dallas, one son W. T. Wade, Jr. of Texas, one sister, Miss Rose Lee Thompson of Dallas, two brothers, Richard Thompson of Dallas and Richard Thompson of Wichita Falls and eight grandchildren.

Hope Looking

which completed one portion, a Sunday School structure, which cost $100,000. Two more buildings are planned.

One large project started in 1962 will fully materialize in 1963. In March last year citizens of the county voted on a mill tax to finance a $225,000 bond issue for expansion of Delight Egg Farms, a subsidiary of Corn Belt Hatcheries of Arkansas. Actually the tax will not be collected until the Delight firm defaults on scheduled bond payments. The project is now nearing completion. It includes a series of huge laying houses and an egg depot capable of handling 10,000 cases of eggs for market per week. This naturally means increased employment.

Another 1963 project is rebuilding of Hope Lumber Manufacturing Co. which was destroyed by fire on April 13, 1962. At the time the plant employed 67 workers. Owners have obtained a Small Business Administration loan of $250,000 to be used along with insurance money in rebuilding a mill as nearly fireproof as possible. Officials hope to have the mill in full operation by April 1963. Already logs are being readied for production.

Also in prospect is a brand new plant for Hope. The local Industrial Foundation is negotiating with several good plant prospects and a deal has almost been closed to bring one in shortly after January 1. This deal is practically a cinch and two others look good. Naturally, any new industry is an economic factor.

The last session of Congress appropriated $2,900,000 for Millwood Dam construction in 1963. The dam site is less than 20 miles from Hope and a portion will be in the county. Officials feel that Hope, Hempstead and the entire area will benefit from this construction, and the future of the project means undreamed of benefits.

The City and County hopes the new Interstate Highway will reach here during the year. A segment is already under construction in Miller, the adjoining county. This too would mean additional employment.

And in the accelerated U.S. Public Works Program this city will ask for and is in an excellent position to get, some $400,000 for street work and utility extensions. "We are also looking into public housing and the urban renewal program," said Garland Medders, City Manager.

In the annual school election voters approved a five mill tax to finance a $250,000 bond issue for additional construction and improvement of existing school facilities.

With these projects already underway Hope and Hempstead looks forward to 1963 as one of the best years in every way in history.

Texas Man Says He Was Robbed

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Police said a Pasadena, Tex. man driving through Arkansas stopped near Arkadelphia Monday night to help a Negro he saw lying in the road and was relieved of $1,600 by the man he stopped to aid and a companion.

State Trooper Joel Sullivan said Richard Leon Sardon told him he saw a Negro in the road about seven miles north of Arkadelphia on Highway 7.

Sullivan said Sardon told him when he stopped to give aid, another Negro appeared from the roadside in the remote area and leveled a shotgun at him.

After taking the money, all in small bills, Sullivan said, the two Negroes faded into the bushes, leaving their victim to drive for help.

thought the small blasts could have been electrical transformers bursting because of heat.

Fire Chief Wilton Drews said the blaze started on the third floor near the rear of the structure but the cause had not been determined.

Drews called for a ladder truck from North Little Rock shortly before midnight and it left for the blaze at 12:02. Firemen said the building would burn through early today, though they had it under control.

The Conway post office, across an alley to the north and a service station adjacent to the building on the south were apparently out of danger, firemen said.

Ed Fulkerson, 77, who has lived at the hotel since 1955, got out by a fire escape.

Barber had owned the hotel for 21 months, he said.

Wirtz Fails to Settle Dock Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz has reported more understanding on both sides in the eight-day-old longshoremen's strike. But the chief union negotiator said the negotiations were still "stymied."

Wirtz, who is chief mediator in the dispute which has tied up shipping from Maine to Texas, said talks on money and fringe issues would continue today.

A few hours before Wirtz spoke Sunday night of "more understanding" he said at a news conference that he believed a basis had been worked out for solving the question of a two-year study of the size of work gangs.

"I think that problem, if not behind us, at least can be handled," he added.

The hipping industry's desire to cut the size of work gangs from 20 to 17 men is a chief issue in the contract dispute involving 60,000 members of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association.

Chief union negotiator Thomas Gleason discussed an offer by the employers Sunday and said "We don't like it at all." He had presented a new union proposal that he said "should be the means of ending this strike," but he gave no details.

A spokesman for the union said its proposal included a two-year contract during which a study of the manpower issue would be made, with no strike during the term of the contract; a 50-cent package including 15 cents an hour in the first year and 11 cents the second year in wages, plus 14 cents in pension benefit and 10 cents in clinic benefits; four paid holidays in addition to the previous eight and four weeks' vacation after 10 years of service.

The union spokesman said the company offer was 12 cents for the first year and 10 cents the second year, but it did not mention holidays or vacations.

Alexander Chopin, chief negotiator for the New York Shipping Association which represents 145 steamship and stowage companies, said the 50-cent package suggested by the union would cost $40 million a year.

Pre-strike wages averaged $3.02 an hour.

The strike on the East and Gulf coasts began a week ago Sunday at the expiration of an 80-day cooling-off period under the Taft-Hartley Act. An injunction had halted a four-day strike by the union last October.

Apparently This Dream Came True

BOSTON (AP) — A pretty young secretary told a friend recently she dreamed she awoke and found the "mad strangler" beside her.

The nightmare apparently came true for Patricia Bissette, 23, formerly of Middlebury, Vt., whose nearly nude body was found strangled Monday. An autopsy showed she was slain about 24 hours before.

She was the eighth strange victim in Greater Boston in six months. None of the slayings has been solved.

Thinks Science Award Is Nice

INDIO, Calif. (AP) — "My, that's nice," said the elderly scientist when told President Kennedy had just named him the first recipient of the National Medal of Science.

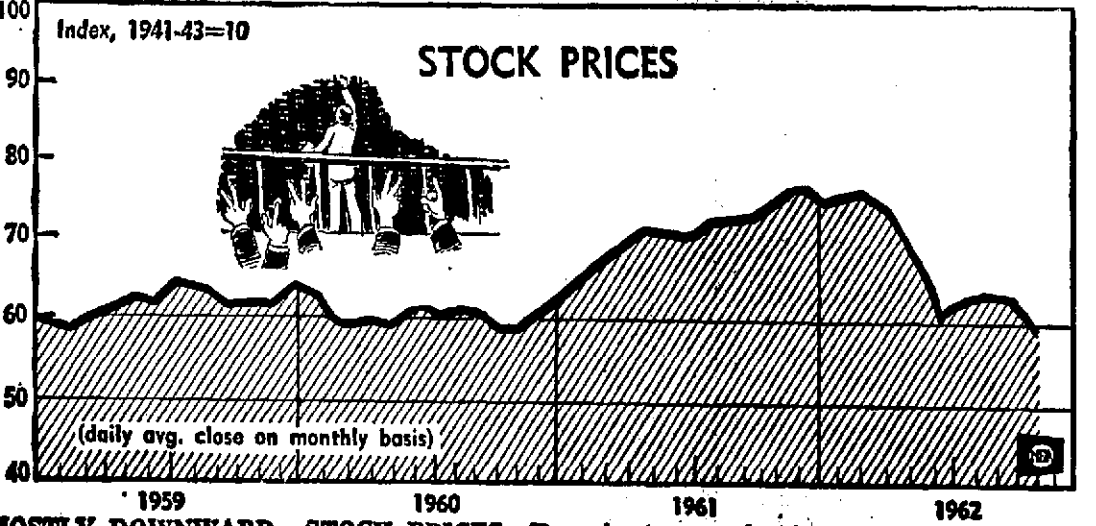

Dr. Theodore Von Karman father of supersonic flight, was in an intertube floating in the swimming pool of a friend when informed by a newsmen of the honor.

Dr. Von Karman, 81, already has enough medals and ribbons to fill a basket and also has 23 honorary doctor degrees from various universities.

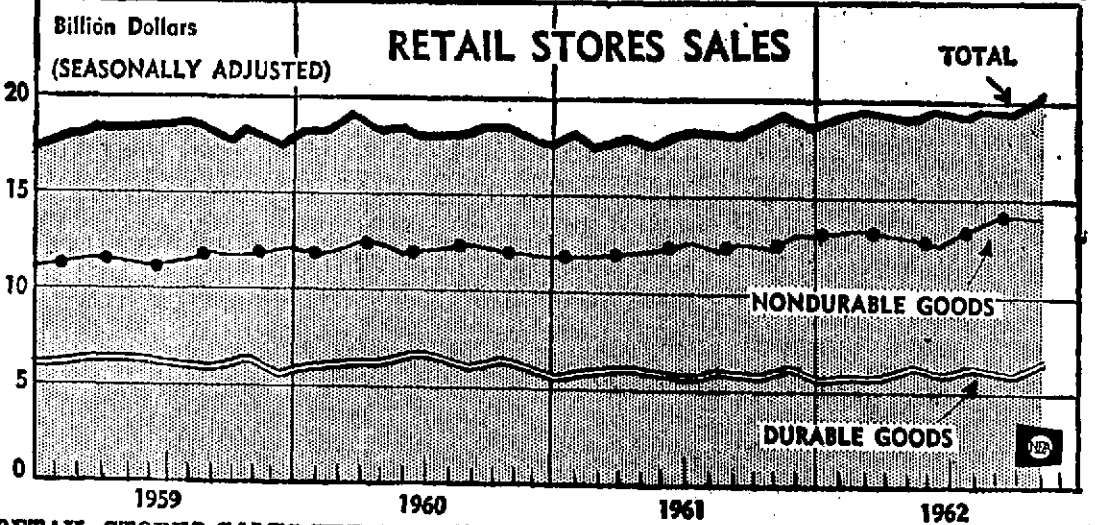

The latest medal, said the presidential announcement in Palm Beach, Fla., is "for leadership in science and engineering basic to aeronautics, for distinguished counsel to the armed services, and for promoting international cooperation in science and engineering."

A. J. Moss New Welfare Dept. Chief

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus appointed Asst. Commissioner A. J. Red Moss, 55, as acting head of the state Welfare Department today and indicated Moss would get the job permanently April 1.

Welfare Commissioner Carl Adams is retiring Tuesday, but he will remain on the payroll three months to use up accumulated annual leave.

Faubus would not say definitely he would name Moss top man, but he said today's appointment could be taken as an indication he would.

"However, I'll reserve that decision until the time comes," he said.

Moss served as welfare commissioner for two years under Gov. Francis Cherry. He remained as assistant commissioner when Faubus appointed Adams to the top position in 1955.

Faubus also said today he would name Jack Holt Jr. to succeed his uncle, Frank Holt, as attorney general when Frank Holt resigns Tuesday to become an associate justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court.

Jack Holt will serve until Jan. 15, when Atty. Gen. elect Bruce Bennett will be sworn in.

Faubus also announced at his news conference today that William J. Smith, a Little Rock attorney, and Bill Laney, assistant labor commissioner, would act as his legislative liaison men during the coming General Assembly.

Laboratory for Tennessee U.

MEMPHIS (AP) — The University of Tennessee College of Medicine has been given a total of $1,271,353 to finance construction of a seven-story laboratory building.

The U.S. Public Health Service's National Institutes of Health granted $661,353. The Dobbs Foundation gave $300,000. And James K. Dobbs Jr. of Memphis added $10,000 in honor of his father.

The new building will be named the James K. Dobbs Medical Research Institute, UT officials said.

Dr. Homer F. Marsh, vice president in charge of UT medical units here, said the building will include research facilities and an outpatient clinic for use by full-time faculty members.

The laboratory building will be connected to a research hospital.

Arkansas apples won first prize in the New Orleans Exposition of 1884.

Air mail service started at Little Rock in 1931.

Arkansas passed its first child labor law and women's minimum wage act in 1915.

The first Arkansas State Highway Department was established in 1913.

These appointments, as those of Moss and Holt, were expected. Smith has worked for the governor during four straight legislative sessions and Laney during three straight.

Turning to other matters, Faubus revealed that Rolla Fitch, director of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, has sold stock he owned in a North Little Rock shopping center.

Willis Ricketts, Faubus' Republican opponent in the Nov. 6 general election, criticized the administration because of Fitch's ownership of stock in a center where a liquor store is located.

Faubus said at the time he felt Fitch should dispose of the stock and he reiterated that opinion today.

Faubus said his office issued a commission today for Jack Pace as sheriff of Marion County.

The governor said a commission had been issued for one George Hickey, the apparent victor over Pace in the last election, but a recent court ruling established Pace as the victor and it was necessary to issue a new commission.

Advisory on Science Is Criticized

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The President's Science Advisory Committee has drawn sharp criticism from Dr. James Van Allen, discoverer of the radiation effects of a nuclear test last July.

David Beckler, executive secretary of the committee, answered that "the committee is a highly competent scientific group with a good reputation for hearing all views."

Van Allen's remarks were made Sunday at the closing sessions of the 129th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

In other developments at the meeting:

A space agency official announced the United States plans to land an expeditionary force of robot detectives on Mars in 1966 to search for life there. He described the ingenious devices being developed or studied to carry out the assignment.

Space doctors weighing the risks stresses and safety actors for the Apollo moon flights expected by 1970 reported there will be an arbitrary retirement age for astronauts flying to the moon. They said this would not be in terms of years but in exposure to penetrating radiation in space.

The Van Allen dispute grew out of a Science Advisory Committee report in August which implied that a nuclear test last July 25 miles above Johnston Island in the Pacific had created an artificial radiation belt that would last long and was stronger than had been predicted.

Evidence from more than a half dozen satellites now passing through the artificial radiation belts indicates the committee statement was wrong, Van Allen said. He predicted the most durable radiation would last not more than a few years and probably would not be detectable by next summer.

Van Allen, of the State University of Iowa, said the committee had relied almost solely on information obtained by the Telstar satellite lifted right after the blast and had ignored evidence from the Injun satellite.

He accused the committee of being hasty and "government-dominated." He said he felt "exceedingly intimidated" on the occasions he has been before the advisory committee, headed by Dr. Jerome B. Weisner.

Dr. James W. Warwick, radio astronomer of the high-altitude observatory at Boulder, Colo., said his studies made with radio measurements generally agreed with Van Allen's and were "inconsistent" with the government's report.

In New York, Dr. I. I. Rabi, Columbia University physicist and consultant-at-large to the committee, said both Van Allen and Warwick "know very well that when evidence is not complete, the results cannot be accurately predicted."

"There are times when practical action must be taken for various reasons," said Rabi. "I regret that Dr. Van Allen was not consulted beforehand, since he seems to be the final authority."

Reception to Castro Offer Cool

By GEORGE ARSELD

HAVANA (AP)—A cool reception greeted today the Castro government's offer to let more Cubans go to the United States if Pan American Airways resumed flights between Havana and Miami.

A Pan American spokesman in New York said the line had little desire to resume normal service to Cuba. He said the company had lost heavily on its flights to Cuba in recent years because of restrictions and limited travel to the island.

The State Department banned private and commercial flights to Cuba during the Cuban crisis. The ban is still on although it was lifted temporarily when the Cuban invasion prisoners were released and flown out.

"The revolutionary government," said a communiqué from Prime Minister Fidel Castro's office, "will maintain its policy to authorize the departure from the country for all those desiring to leave as soon as the Pan American Airways resumes its flights to Cuba which it suspended by a decision of North American authorities."

Official sources denied reports that Castro had agreed to allow more relatives of the Bay of Pigs invaders to follow the prisoners to the United States. James B. Donovan, the New York attorney who negotiated the release of the prisoners and nearly 1,000 of their relatives, said Saturday in Lake Placid, N.Y., that Castro had agreed to let an additional 2,500 relatives go to the United States.

Donovan said as each installment of the $53 million worth of ransom food and drugs for the prisoners was delivered, another group of relatives would be released.

The Cuban communiqué also denied a report by Donovan that Castro might go to the United Nations to negotiate the release of 21 Americans imprisoned in Cuba. Havana radio ridiculed President Kennedy's appearance in Miami Saturday before the Bay of Pigs prisoners.

"Kennedy made a real effort to forget his Yankee aristocratic prejudices when he called brothers these contemptible Latin Americans born in Cuba," the broadcast said.

"One of the most ridiculous aspects of the show staged by Kennedy and his mercenaries was the reference to the fake brigade flag which Kennedy promised to return some day to what he called a free Havana."

Money Is Problem in Title Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Money reared its head again Tuesday in the heavyweight title picture.

A government ruling announced in the closing hours of 1962 cleared the way for x-champion Floyd Patterson to get his money from the Sept. 25 fight in Chicago in which he was dethroned in one round by Sonny Liston.

But Patterson won't get the money the way he wanted it. And Liston won't get his at all—at least not yet.

This snagged plans by promoter Tom Bolan of Championship Sports Inc., to announce a rematch. He had hoped to set the date in a few days, with the site either Las Vegas or Baltimore, with Miami a possibility.

The government statement, issued from the office of U. S. Attorney Robert Morgenthau, talked only about the closed circuit television money.

It said the more than $600,000 coming to Patterson from this source would be paid. He got about half of it Monday night, in the old tax year, and will get the rest in the new year.

Patterson wanted it spread over 17 years, to ease the tax bite, but the government refused.

The rest, including $207,000 Liston says he has coming, will be held until the promoter's tax liability is determined, although money to meet the promoter's fight expenses will be freed.

Liston has said he won't fight until he is paid. It may take several days to clear that up.

There Are Some Happy People in World

Here is a positive note for New Year's Day: letters from readers with no problems.

Dear Helen: If the many letters you receive from complaining wives and husbands are any criteria, the majority of marriages have failed. Mine is the exception to the rule. Would that every couple could enjoy as happy a home life as ours. Here are some of the reasons why our marriage has succeeded:

To achieve a satisfactory relationship in marriage, both husband and wife must show kindness and consideration, one to the other.

To share equally, happiness and sorrow, is essential. My husband and I make a point of doing this with our business, income, pleasures and work. He is the most thoughtful person in the world. Never a day passes that he doesn't tell me of his love and express it in other ways as well.

I strive to be worthy of that love and hope that our son will grow up to be the wonderful man and husband his father is. I pray that his wife will be the kind of person he then merits. If both husband and wife give and accept love for what it really is—a treasure more priceless than all the financial wealth of the universe, then they will indeed "live happily forever after."

You may print this letter with my name, if you wish, because I believe that a truly successful marriage is something to be proud of. I am indeed thankful for our happiness and don't mind if the whole world knows it.—Mrs. Fred Perkins, West Union, Ill.

Stove Explodes, Two People Perish

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP)—Investigators say a fire that claimed the lives of an elderly brother and sister Friday was caused by an exploding kerosene stove in the kitchen of their farm home northeast of Springdale.

William Tell Kendrick, 72, and Miss Mary Jane Kendrick, 81, were burned beyond recognition in the fire. They were alone in the one-story frame home.

Approves Building

SHERIDAN, Ark. (AP)—The Grant County Quorum Court has approved proposed plans to build a new $300,000 court house in Sheridan and has made an application for federal aid to help in the project. County Judge Winfred Hall said that the application has been filed with the Works Progress Administration. If the grant is approved, the proposal, along with a one and a half or two mill tax increase, will be submitted to county voters.

Business Keeps Fingers Crossed

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—This year business starts off with fingers crossed. A year ago it was expecting big things. A new boom was being forecast by many economists, particularly those in government posts.

This year turned out to be a good one, as a matter of fact, with 1962 setting highs in many lines of industry and trade, in personal incomes and total employment. It just wasn't the smasher that the prophets had led people to expect.

In this new year there are also some high hopes. They largely revolve around the chance of a federal tax cut and the prospect of greater government spending. Many industrial economists think the two together could spell a better year in 1963 than we had in 1962.

Others, more cautious, say that these two factors, if they develop on schedule, could at least keep any business slowdown from becoming a major one, and later could spell another moderate advance.

But the majority this time prefers to keep fingers crossed. There are three factors in the domestic economy that will decide what kind of a year it will be, and there are uncertainties at the moment as to the course of all three.

First is consumer spending. This has been going along at a good clip. People haven't been splurging. But neither have they been scrimping. If nothing shakes their confidence in the future they may go on spending at about the same rate as now.

The uncertain factors here are how to bring more persons off the jobless rolls and into the income earning class and whether upcoming wage negotiations will mean an increase in take home pay or whether spreading me pay or whether spreading mechanization will cause more unemployment and thus cut total consumer spending power.

The second factor in the economy is how much business itself will spend. At present it appears it will spend about the same, or at least only a little more on plants and equipment than it did in 1962.

And a third factor in the economy is government spending. This seems sure to rise markedly, no matter what Congress does. But if Congress should decide on pump priming and more spending, or if a new international crisis should arise, government spending could add a sizable amount in total outlays.

And the most publicized uncertainty at the moment is tax cutting. What Congress does could have quite an effect on the economy, both in dollars and in psychology.

A tax cut for individuals could increase consumer spending. A cut for corporations could boost business spending.

Won't Push Plan to Consolidate

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Gov. Orval E. Faubus indicated today he would not push for a compulsory school consolidation plan in the coming legislative session.

"There is a possible need for consolidation," Faubus told a news conference, "but it's been my contention that this should be left to the people in the individual districts."

Some educational leaders have discussed the possibility of getting the legislature to spell out minimum standards for a school district. This would force some smaller districts into consolidation.

The last major school district reorganization in Arkansas was in 1949 when the number of districts was cut from more than 1,000 to less than 500. Further voluntary consolidation has reduced the number to 416, many of which fail to meet the minimum standards set in the 1949 consolidation act.

Faubus said proponents of consolidation are overlooking one fact. "The state is starting to grow again," he said. "We can't be sure these rural areas will continue to decline. If they begin to grow, they may be able to adequately support schools again."

Thought For The Day

Fellows who have no tongues are often all eyes and ears. Haliburton said it.

50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Couch celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary Dec. 21st. Mums Chapel Baptist Church was the scene of this unique and colorful event. The altar was beautifully decorated with yellow chrysanthemums against a background of Christmas vines, accented by the glow of yellow lighted candles.

Rev. N. L. Dove, accompanied by Mrs. W. K. Mitche II, of Washington, sang, "I Love You Truly." The bride wore a lilac-blue, brocade silk faille dress, with a white satin, pill box hat, which caught up the veil of white silk net.

The groom was attired in a dark navy blue suit. Linda Stewart was flower girl, Olen Johnson, ring bearer. Rev. R. N. Shorty, of Hot Springs, acted as father of the bride. Rev. F. R. Shorty officiated. Mr. Oscar Johnson, of Murfreesboro was best man. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. Harriett, Mrs. Wessie Tidwell, all of Murfreesboro, Mrs. Johnnie Langford and Mrs. Mamie Smith.

Immediately after the ceremony, open house was held in the church dining hall. Special guests were invited to dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Couch climaxed the evening.

Dr. McDonald said citizens should initiate a petition calling for the banning of all types of gambling in the state.

Loyola Keeps Winning Streak Going at 11

By ED CORRIGAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Illinois, which has been ending the rest of the Big Ten into an acute case of the shakes, has turned out to be human after all. The proof came from an unexpected source, Notre Dame.

The Irish chopped down the Illinois 90-88 Monday night to shatter Illinois' all-winning record and in the bargain furnish its ranking as No. 3 team in the country. Harry Combes' outfit had run through eight opponents in a row.

In the other half of the Chicago Stadium doubleheader, Loyola of Chicago, rated No. 2 in the Associated Press weekly poll, ran its record to 11-0 with a 74-69 decision over Dayton. This was Loyola's puniest point-production of the season.

Three of the other top teams in the country got into action Monday night and two of them won. Arizona State, No. 4, edged Denver, 79-72 in overtime to run its record to 10-1; Ohio State won its eighth game against one defeat by downing Brigham Young, 97-91. But Kentucky, No. 6, bowed to St. Louis, 87-63, and is losing ground fast as a factor in the Southeastern Conference race which gets under way Saturday. The Wildcats now are 7-3.

John Andreoli, a 6-3 senior, was the villain to Illinois. Notre Dame was trailing by eight points, 65-57, with eight minutes to go and Illinois appeared to be coasting to a ho-hum victory.

Then Andreoli went to work. He scored two straight baskets. Five minutes later, sophomore Jay Miller tied it at 71-71. In all Andreoli connected with nine of his 10 shots from the floor in the final three minutes and wound up with 25 points.

Dayton, which gave mighty Cincinnati a good tussle 11 days ago, made things interesting for Loyola in the first half, when the lead changed hands 10 times. But two minutes before intermission, Loyola went ahead to stay. Jerry Harkness was high with 25 points for Loyola, the biggest point-producer in the nation.

Denver, which has won only three of its 11 games this season, came within a hair's breadth of giving Arizona State the same treatment Notre Dame inflicted on Illinois.

With the score tied at 67-67, Denver grabbed the ball, and stalled for 51 seconds before Deni Hodge tried a 25-foot field goal as the horn sounded. He missed by about a foot.

A-State was the master in the overtime, through, when Joe Caldwell scored 7 of his 25 points. Tom Vezie kept Denver close in the second half when he canned 20 of his 22 points for the game.

Ohio State, too, had its problems running its home-court winning streak to 40 games. The Buckeyes were trailing 87-85 with four minutes to go when Dick Reasbeck came off the bench and put on a ball-stealing act that left the BYU players looking at each other in bewilder

Key Question on This New Years Day

By HAL BOYLE

Rafe was sure enough wedged between a rock and a hard place. He couldn't leave the guy loose to go running to Spangler.

Keeping narrowed stare bitterly pinned to the doorway, Rafe scanned his chances. Last thing he wanted was to rouse the town, and any sudden commotion or gunplay could do it. It wasn't likely whoever ran the shop had opened yet so if he started across the road, the feller was pretty near bound to shoot.

The wheel squeaks had quit. Though he couldn't see it without poking his neck out, Pike must have the buggy in front of the bank. And the horsebackers had apparently arrived there, too.

Muttering something about "highly irregular" Chilton was unlocking the bank's front door when Rafe, staring hard, suddenly made up his mind. A man could swing just as high for a sheep as a goat in this country, and since he dared not leave that feller loose, he yelled with his gun up: "Come outa that door-hole. Andale! Andale!"

Brick chips stung the side of his face. Muzzleflame bloomed in the harness shop shadows. Firing at the flash Rafe saw Spangler's man tumble out of the doorway clutching his side, lurch two crazy steps in a kind of half circle, and crumple into the dust.

Shouts and the slapping of thrown-up windows came through the stomping clatter of echoes as Rafe, diving into the street, gun lifting, ran toward the huddle of statue-like shapes before the bank's open door, the gallop of horses hammering hard at his heels.

Only thing that surprised him was that nobody fired. In all that confusion of cries and called questions it was hard to hold firm to any kind of a course. He saw Chilton in the entry, white faced, eyes about to roll off his cheekbones. He shoved his free hand against Pike's shoulder. "In de! Inside!" He tried to will them to move.

Some excited fool yelled: "They're stickin' up the bank!"

Rafe, twisting around, saw Brownwater Bill and a flustered looking badge packer piling off their ears-back eye-rolling horses in a fog of lemon dust. He saw more dust, far out, a long balloon-edged boiling line of it.

He stood with sinking heart, all his hopes and defenses toppling. Then he grabbed a fresh breath. "Get 'em inside. Sheriff, an' hurry it up!"

He stood with sinking heart, all and snatched free the rifle, fevering a cartridge into the chamber. Some of the men hurrying out of near houses sprinted for cover as Rafe put a blue whistler over their heads. He loosed a couple of more to make sure they kept going, and ducked into the bank in the wake of the others, slamming the door.

The rest of this time he was going to have to play by ear, but he could still take some of the heat off his pa. And he was glad, looking around, to see that someone had thought to stuff a tow sack for him.

Now, pushing forward, Rafe said, "Let's get this over with." His stare speared the banker.

Sheriff Ed said, getting his wind up: "What're we here for—what's goin' on?"

"We're here," Rafe said, "to get rid of that mortgage Chilton holds against Gourd and Vine. Anything in them papers, banker, says we can't clear the whole debt off right now?"

Chilton hemmed and hawed, plainly dissatisfied. He looked uneasy, almost frightened. Rafe thought, but the glances he kept stabbing about didn't seem to pick up much in the way of encouragement.

He finally said, "No-o" in a tone so reluctant it made Brownwater snort.

Rafe said, "All right. Dig 'em up. And, while you're at it, fetch out your receipt book. Mean while," he shifted, "let's have some paper an' one of them steel pens. Bender's going to scratch his Jehu Henry to a piece of writin' that Pike'll put in the right lingo an' notarize."

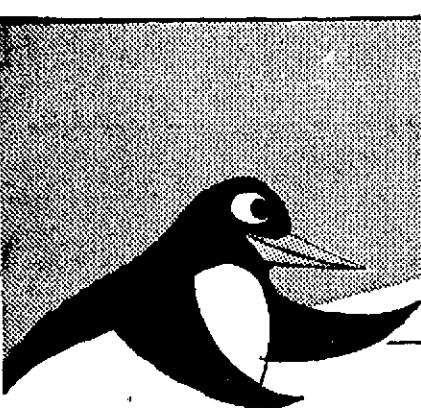

Pike's brows shot up but he didn't say anything. He pulled up the swivel, seating himself at Chilton's fine desk and squaring the paper the banker got for him. He picked up the pen, examining it critically.

Then he uncorked the ink and looked up at Rafe. "What's it to be?"

"A will," Rafe grinned. "The last will and testament of Jeremiah Bender. You can put that down with the appropriate flourishes." He handed the rifle to Ed Sparks. Chilton's tinbadge "Sheriff, you better stand over by the door where the riffraff can get a look at you. Interruptions at a time like this could be downright painful to some of those concerned."

Tapping his six-shooter, he looked significantly at Chilton: and the banker, noticeably blanching, made hast to reveal a kind of parched approval.

Geological evidence indicates that during many millions of years, Arkansas was covered by a shallow sea.
